How to Subdue a Vicious Horse.

On looking over some old papers the other day, we came across the following, if true, is worth knowing. It seems that a fruitless effort was being made in a blacksmith shop to shoe a vicious horse, which resisted all efforts, kicked aside everything but an anvil, and came near killing himself again that, when, by mere accident, an officer returned from Mexico was passing, and being made acquainted with the difficulty, applied a complete remedy by the following simple process:

He took a cord about the size of a common bedcord, put it in the mouth of the horse like a bit, and tied it tightly on the top of the animal's head, passing his left ear under the string, not painfully tight, but tight enough to keep the ear down and the cord in its place. This done, he patted the horse gently on the side of the head, and commanded him to follow, and instantly the horse obeyed, perfectly subdued, and as gentle and obedient as a well-trained dog; suffering his feet to be lifted with entire impunity, and acting in all respects like an old stager. The simple string, thus tied, had made him at once as docile and obedient as any one could desire. The gentleman who thus furnished this exceedingly simple means of subduing a very dangerous propensity, intimated that it is practised in Mexico and South America in the management of wild horses. Be this as it may, he deserves the thanks of all owners of such horses, and especially the thanks of those whose business it may be to shoe or groom the animals.—The Plough, the Loom, and the Anvil.

A New Grass.

Seed of the Alfalfa grass, a species of Lucerna, has been distributed to various places in the Union, by the Patent Office. It was brought from Chili in South America. It is spoken of by the Commissioner of Patents in the following manner: It is a vigorous grower, requires little labor, and furnishes two crops a year of most nutritious food for stock of all kinds. As is well known, the mining districts of Chili are for the most part very sterile, and rain is of seldom occurrence. Natural grasses are, therefore, of scanty growth and the miners are compelled to rely for the maintenance of their animals upon the alfalfa estates, which lie within the valleys of that mountainous region.

The supply would, however, be wholly inadequate, were not the plant so remarkably prolific, and possessed of such extraordinary nutritious properties. With the addition of a little barley, it is found to keep mules in the best working condition and consequently the owner of one of these alfalfa lucernas is able to draw from his estate a much larger revenue than if cultivated in grain. In its green state, cattle feed upon it with the utmost avidity, require flesh so fast that it is a practice in Chili to drive herds from the grass pastures of the South for hundreds of miles, in order to obtain the benefits of its use. The land is prepared for the seed of this plant in the same manner as for clover, it being in truth of the same family as the latter.

Dr. Tschudi, in his travels in Peru, states that this plant is cultivated in great abundance throughout the whole of Peru, as fodder for cattle. It does not bear great humidity, nor severe heat or cold, yet its elevation boundary is 11,000 feet above the level of the sea. On the coast it flourishes very luxuriantly during the months of February and March, corresponding with our August and September, it almost entirely dries up. In the mountainous districts it is also most abundant during the humid season, but as soon as the first frost sets in, it decays, takes a rusty brown color, and remains in a bad state until the beginning of the rainy season.—On an average, the alfalfa may be cut four times in a year, but in the elevated districts only three times and in humid soils on the coast, particularly in the neighborhood of rivers, five times. Once in every four or five years the alfalfa fields are broken up by the plough, and then sown with barley or maize. The sixth year alfalfa is again sown.

The most favorable soil for the growth of this plant would appear to be a deep sandy loam, such as the alluvial deposits along rivers and streams, or the fertile and bottom lands of the South and West. It is not adapted for heavy lands nor those which are wet. Being a deep-rooted plant, it requires a soil that is loose, in order that its roots may penetrate to a considerable depth. If the soil is not sufficiently light by nature, it should be made so by the use of the spade or the sub-soil plough.

A man is judged by the company he keeps. So look out, and keep clear of loafers, bed bugs, painted women, and bull dogs.

IMPOTENCY.—Through unrestrained indulgence of the passions, by excess of self abuse, the evils are numerous. Premature impotency, involuntary seminal discharges, wasting of the organs, loss of memory, indistinct vision, general debility, or constitutional derangement, are sure to follow. Necessary, consult the Doctor with confidence; he offers a perfect cure.

READ AND BELIEVE.—The afflicted would do well to reflect before trusting their health, happiness, and in many cases their lives, in the hands of Physicians ignorant of the class of maladies. Cure of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Bronchitis, and all Throat and Lung Complaints.

I have published a brief work on Consumption, which contains an invaluable recipe for the cure of these prevalent diseases, even in their worst stages, and my friends and physicians have given up all hope. The Lung Balsam prescribed in this work Cures without the expensive aid of physicians or injurious use of patent medicines. In adopting this System of Cure the patient knows what he is using—knows that he is not shortening his days by the use of any of those or mercurials, which may seem to relieve but never Cure. He knows when using this Life-saving Balsam, that he is taking mild, pleasant, efficacious remedies, such as Nature prescribes for the ill he suffers. The ingredients composing this Lung Balsam are obtained cheaply (cheaply too) wherever consumption exists, proving that Every ill has its antidote. Consumptive patients may Relieve their complaint—(all Lung Complaints are removed by its use)—I would not attach my name to it, had I doubt of its efficacy. The directions for preparing and using the Balsam are perfectly plain. I prefer selling the Recipe to making the Balsam, as it enables people to Make their own Medicine at a trifling Cost. I will impart the secret of making the Balsam, and the Family right to use it, for $1, but in no case will I sell it for speculating purposes.

Proof of its Goodness.

JACKSON, Mich. March 21, 1851.

Doct. S. T. FOUSS—Sir: You wished me to let you know what effect your preparation of Medicine for Consumption and other diseases had in my family. After the first ten days my wife gained in weight 3 lbs., relieved her cough, changed her countenance, and all appearances were better. My family would not be willing to do without it. It is a medicine much needed in Jackson—there is many cases similar to my wife's. The Rev. Mr. Blanchard will write you for a recipe. Respectfully yours.

HORSES MADE SOUND

BY THE

Horse Owner's Secret,

Being a new and certain remedy for the speedy

Cure of Heaves,

By SIR JAMES LYNDONTON,

Principal Farrier to his Royal Highness Prince Albert.

THE great discovery contained in this little work procured Sir James his Baronetcy. It is really worth its weight in gold to all who own or use Horses. It prescribes a certain and positive cure for Heaves which any person can prepare. The remedy is better and cheaper than any advertised Heave Powder, and is perfectly safe, as any one can know who tries it. Horse owners know that many a valuable Horse loses half its price by this prevalent disease. The remedy prescribed in this work will cure him and increase his market value, besides relieving the poor beast of a horrible complaint, similar to the Asthma in a man. The public can depend on this work; it is no catchpenny humbug. The articles prescribed by Sir James are all cheap and can be had at any store. To prevent imposition the work will be sent in sealed envelopes. English price four shillings and three pence sterling—American price, $1 per copy. Persons ordering Sir James' Work, are expected to confine his instructions to their own animals.—It will be sent to none others.
